Celebrating Diversity

Inclusion in practice from age 3 to 7 years

This useful DVD Resource for practitioners, teachers, students, lecturers and trainers is full of good ideas for countering discrimination and exclusion. It is based on the principle that good practice is inclusive practice.

The DVD shows sequences of children, parents and practitioners working together to implement inclusion and avoid exclusion in all its forms. It deals with issues such as:

- racism
- gender bias
- special needs
- English as an additional language
- similarities and differences
- avoiding prejudice
- including parents
- and much more

Celebrating Diversity is designed for use by practitioners and teachers working with 3 to 7 year olds in early years settings and nursery schools, Foundation Stage and KSI classes. The DVD is divided into six separate easy-to-use sequences. The Support Book is included on the DVD and contains a range of additional examples and ideas for activities.

"If you want to make everyone feel that they belong in your setting or classroom, then here's a new video resource to help you."

TEAM VIDEO

Celebrating Diversity

1 Good Practice is Inclusive Practice

- Building children's self esteem: children are given security and the space to talk and grow.
- Seizing the moment: inclusion issues raised with a group of children trying on glasses.
- Empowering children: an absorbing role play develops as children and staff create and run an Indian restaurant in the home corner.

2 Acknowledging Difference

- Celebrating similarities and differences: activities with paints, books and stories encourage children to unlearn discriminatory attitudes.

3 Avoiding Exclusion

- Encouraging inclusion: children with special needs provide an opportunity to include staff, children and parents.
- Valuing male members of staff: does it matter?
- Challenging stereotypes: a health clinic in the home corner and superhero play in the garden provide situations to challenge gender roles.

4 Learning and Unlearning

- Countering discrimination: a KSI teacher uses a Persona Doll in the Literacy Hour to encourage children to read, talk and make up their own minds about a racist incident.

5 Including Parents

- Consulting, listening to and learning from parents: the power of inclusion expressed by parents and staff in Sure-Start settings.
