Insert: The DVD comes with a copy of the youth version of the UDHR (plus a printable PDF file also on the DVD)

Suitability: 11 to 18 years

Price: DVD £20.00 ex Vat (not available on VHS)

This richly animated DVD, is an accessible and enjoyable introduction to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR).

What does the Universal Declaration say?

Although it is part of our political vocabulary, few people actually know what it says.

Amnesty International have produced this 'youth version' of the UDHR which avoids the legalese and jargon and expresses the 30 articles in clear and simple language.

What can I use the DVD for?

The DVD comes with a copy of the youth version of the UDHR plus a printable PDF file also on the DVD, that will allow you to print off as many copies as you want.

This resource should be a key part of the Citizenship curriculum.

It says exactly what are our human rights.

It answers the questions:

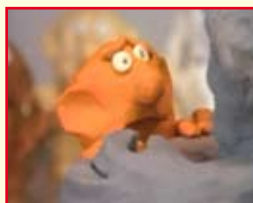

- Does everybody have rights?
- What happens when rights conflict?
- Can rights be taken away from those who are irresponsible and anti social?

Making Universal Rights Come Alive

At a time when many young people feel their own freedoms and rights are being curtailed, this presentation of the universality of rights is very timely.

This DVD can form the basis for an extended project using writing, music and voices or drama.

The animated sequences were made specially for Amnesty International by the world's top animators. The words and music were provided by Impington Village College in Cambridge.
